Dear Friends of the Foundation,

My fellow members on the Board of Directors of the Delaware County Community College Educational Foundation and I are grateful to the College’s alumni, friends and other constituents who support our mission. Board members are motivated by a sense of community that is demonstrated by an investment of time and philanthropic dollars. We represent a diversity of professions and businesses, large and small. Our involvement facilitates partnerships, where appropriate, and philanthropic gifts for College priorities.

A strong community is made possible by institutions like Delaware County Community College that focus on career opportunities for residents, while also preparing students to transfer to four year institutions for advanced degrees. For this reason, our Board is committed to the work of the Foundation whose sole mission is to develop resources for students, faculty, programs and capital projects.

In recent years the College has focused on transforming the Marple Campus into a 21st century educational environment. This transformation was made possible by major investments by the College that were augmented by gifts from many donors. There is more to be accomplished, but with renewed support from our constituents, we will continue to make an impact on what the College is able to offer the community.

The Board’s service on various committees helps to ensure the success of Foundation activities. Annual gifts, which support the scholarship program, the golf outing, events and other projects, rely on a great number of people to be successful. We owe a debt of gratitude to our Board members and to all donors whose names are listed in this report.

Sincerely yours,

Donald B. Soslow
Chair, Board of Directors
DCCC Educational Foundation
The Foundation hosts an annual dinner in fall to recognize scholarship donors and scholarship recipients. Donors are applauded for their generosity and students for their accomplishments.

Much more than “Shaquille O’Neal’s mom,” the 2012 keynote speaker Lucille O’Neal shared her life story candidly—and often humorously—in her book Walk Like You Have Somewhere to Go as well as in her remarks. Touching on her years of spiritual unrest and mental welfare, she discussed her struggles and disappointments against the backdrop of her sweetest memories and proudest accomplishments. After 56 years, O’Neal has gained the wisdom to recognize her wrongs and guide other women down a different path. Her story was proof that it’s never too late for a new beginning. In 1997, O’Neal fulfilled her longtime dream of going back to school and graduated cum laude with a bachelor of science in business. Her message was inspiring and relevant to the audience.

The March of Dimes was represented by (from right) Betsy Hanway and Theresa Cicalense who congratulated students in health-related majors (from left), Clara Johnson, Jasmin Scott and Autumn Schuibbeo. The March of Dimes presented scholarships for 19 students.
The Sweet Future Scholarship was established by five alumni who majored in communications. Samantha Andricola (from left) accepted the award from Linda Fox, Harold Townsend III, Maura Elliott, Gloria Vincent and Edward Betts.

Sue Watras of Penn Machine Works congratulates Abayomi Osho on receiving the company’s manufacturing scholarship for machine tool technology majors.

Shanna-Kay Beckford (center) received the Shames Reading Scholarship and Phyllis Wexler Memorial Scholarship from Professor Dianne Shames and husband Marc Shames.

Boeing representatives (from left in background) Tony Caruso, Phil Iannuzzi, Robert Cassidy and Gerald Garten present scholarships to engineering majors (foreground center) Luis Lopez, Tiffanie Thornton, Andrew Reist and George Butts IV. Cassidy is also a Foundation Board Member.

Professor Jill Spelina (center) congratulates Erin Emmel (left) on receiving the George and Anna Hall Memorial Scholarship and Linda Johnson on receiving the Donnelly-Barnes Scholarship. Spelina and colleagues Lisa Barnes and Dotty Russo established scholarships for students facing various challenges.

THE JELINEK COLLECTION

Finds a Home
at Brandywine Campus

When the Jelinek family was looking for a home for their parents’ cookbook collection following the death of their mother in February, they called Delaware County Community College. Chef Peter Gilmore, who heads up the College’s new culinary arts program, readily accepted all 1,000 books at the Brandywine Campus, keeping the collection intact, as Frank and Mary Jelinek had always intended. The fact that Peter had known Frank and Mary came as an added bonus in presenting the gift to the College.

A luncheon was arranged at the Brandywine Campus where the family could see the collection in place. Chef Gilmore delighted the family by preparing a meal from Frank and Mary’s own cookbook, which served as a mid-term grade for the students. The students received high marks from the appreciative guests that included the Jelinek children, grandchildren and College administrators.

Frank and Mary Jelinek retired in 2005 after broadcasting “Dining Around,” for more than three decades on three different radio stations in metropolitan Philadelphia. Their radio broadcast was based on fine dining experiences in 8,000 different restaurants in 100 countries. The College is a grateful beneficiary of the Jelinek collection, which will enlighten and inspire our culinary students for years to come.
The transformation of the Marple Campus to a 21st century educational environment, which began with the development of the STEM Complex in 2009 and 2010, has continued with major construction and renovation projects. During 2012-2013, two important facilities were expanded and renovated, the large auditorium and the Library. Grand opening events were held to showcase the new facilities and to thank donors for their support.

The Grand Opening of the Learning Commons on March 1 attracted friends and family, old and new. Old friends like retired faculty and staff were awed by the transformation of the Library and the up to the minute technology that abounds in the new location. Faculty and staff who had played a role in developing the Learning Commons were delighted to provide information and tours to colleagues, board members and other VIPs in attendance.

Combining the attributes of a traditional library with the accessibility of technology and academic support services, the Learning Commons offers students, faculty and staff a place to research and collaborate. The glass-enclosed study rooms with whiteboards and computer monitors provide the perfect environment for group efforts and quiet study.

The Learning Commons has also centralized access to academic resources. Reading and writing tutors, ESL instructors, information literacy assistance and more than 100 computers allow students to research, compose, revise and print their work in a one-stop location.

The $8 million facility has also changed thinking about acquisition of materials and organization of staff. Reducing the number of print items has resulted in a savings that can be applied to subscriptions for digital resources. Cross-training staff in the Learning Commons consolidates human resources and creates efficiency in learning.
Many donors to Phase II Gateway to Opportunity “purchased” seats in the new auditorium or Learning Commons. The campaign provided for nameplates on auditorium seating or computer workstations. Seats are still available for gifts ranging from $250 to $1,500. For information, contact the Foundation Office at 610-359-5131.

STANDING OVATIONS
FOR NEW AUDITORIUM

The grand opening event of the newly renovated Auditorium was worthy of a standing ovation like the one David Kim, Concertmaster of The Philadelphia Orchestra, and Jeffrey DeVault, pianist, received on concluding their performance. The sellout concert drew 250 people to the new facility on December 2, 2012. Preceded by a donor reception, the magnificent performance by the world-renowned violinist and pianist was more than equal to the occasion.

College President Dr. Jerry Parker welcomed the audience comprising board members, faculty, students and community members. He recognized all who assisted in the development of the Auditorium and thanked donors who had “purchased” seats in the fundraising campaign as well as PNC Bank, event sponsor.

Dear Donors,

Throughout the past year, we have thanked you for your contributions to the Foundation. The annual report presents another opportunity to express our gratitude and to document your generosity. Contributions in 2012-2013 totaled $1,171,503, representing support for capital and annual programs, and an increase of nearly 12% over last year.

Phase II of the Gateway to Opportunity Capital Campaign for development of the Learning Commons and Auditorium is underway with gifts of $88,442 contributed during the year. Both the Auditorium and the Learning Commons opened in 2012 and 2013, respectively, with a great deal of fanfare. Other capital improvements are planned, which will complete the transformation of the Marple Campus into a 21st century educational environment.

This report also showcases the Foundation’s Annual Dinner, which recognizes all those who support the scholarship program. With 122 scholarships totaling $207,960 in awards, the Foundation continues to welcome new donors each year. These donors join a list of alumni, faculty, friends, board members, corporations, foundations and other organizations whose longstanding support has assisted worthy students for many years.

One of our largest programs is the Lou W. Scott III Memorial Scholarship, which is bolstered every year by the annual Lou Scott Golf Classic. As noted in this report, this event has continued to attract 100 or more golfers each year for the past 13 years, raising $188,000 and assisting 61 students. It is just one example of the commitment of our constituents to the well-being of our students and our shared community.

Your continuing support of the Foundation’s mission plays an essential role in the College’s student retention effort. It is also a vote of confidence in the work of faculty and administration. Thank you again.

Sincerely,

Kathleen A. Breslin
